Total returns are calculated using the sell (exit) price, net of management fees and gross of tax as if distributions of income have been reinvested at the actual distribution reinvestment price. The actual returns received by an investor will depend on the timing, buy and exit prices of individual transactions. Return of capital and the performance of your investment in the fund are not guaranteed. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Figures showing a period of less than one year have not been adjusted to show an annual total return. Figures for periods of greater than one year are on a per annum compound basis. The current benchmark may not have been the benchmark over all periods shown in the above chart and tables. The calculation of the benchmark performance links the performance of previous benchmarks and the current benchmark over the relevant time periods.

Commentary

On a gross basis, the High Growth Fund rose 11.0% in the financial year ended 30 June 2024, underperforming its benchmark which rose 13.3%. Net of fees, the High Growth Fund (Wholesale) rose 10.0% and the High Growth Fund (Retail) rose 9.5% underperforming the same benchmark over the same period.

The fund underperformed compared to its benchmark due to below-market returns on equity holdings, especially in Australian large-cap stocks. Being underweight in financials coupled with stock specific detractor within materials, and healthcare holdings hurt performance. However, underweight direct property was beneficial as market valuations continued to be revised lower over the period. Active global fixed income and cash allocations outperformed the benchmark.

Despite the lower-than-benchmark performance of our equity holdings, all asset classes except property contributed positively to the fund's total return. Equity markets saw strong double-digit returns for a second year, with the S&P 500 leading the S&P/ASX200, driven by large-cap momentum, particularly in the AI sector. Bond markets were mixed in terms of where they ended the year but overall delivered modest positive returns, helped by compression of credit spreads in the risk-positive environment.
