Total returns are calculated using the sell (exit) price, net of management fees and gross of tax as if distributions of income have been reinvested at the actual distribution reinvestment price. The actual returns received by an investor will depend on the timing, buy and exit prices of individual transactions. Return of capital and the performance of your investment in the fund are not guaranteed. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Figures showing a period of less than one year have not been adjusted to show an annual total return. Figures for periods of greater than one year are on a per annum compound basis. The current benchmark may not have been the benchmark over all periods shown in the above chart and tables. The calculation of the benchmark performance links the performance of previous benchmarks and the current benchmark over the relevant time periods.

Commentary

For the financial year ended June 2024 the Australian Ethical income Fund (Wholesale) returned 4.95% net of fees, 0.58% ahead of the 4.37% return of its benchmark, the Bloomberg Ausbond Bank Bill Index. The retail fund return was also 4.95%.

The Australian Ethical income Fund is a short duration fund that aims to reflect prevailing market interest rates through exposure to a combined portfolio of short dated Commonwealth and State Government bonds, Floating rate notes issued by Banks (ranging from mutual banks to regional banks to the major banks), corporate issues, term deposits, mortgage backed and other asset backed securities.

Over the last year, the 3month bank bill swap rate that serves as the basis for the return of the floating rate securities in the fund moved from 4.35% at the end of June 2023 to 4.44% at the end of June 2024, having seen a low of 4.11% in late 2023., reflecting a market that had begun pricing near term moves to cut rates after central banks signaled an easing bias and expectations of rate cuts ahead late in 2023, only to see inflation data not supporting a near-term move in the early stages of 2024. The persistence in inflation has more recently seen rate cut pricing erased and markets pricing the chance of an additional hike to come from the RBA.

Despite these choppy moves in near-term expectations, credit spreads have remained relatively benign over the year and delivered the benefits of credit exposure to fund fund seen in the outperformance versus benchmark.
